HOST OF BILLS BEFORE SOLONS

One Would Do Away With Railroad Labor Board.

RELIEF OF FARMERS SOUGHT

Seven Measures Launched In Behalf of Agricultural Interests—Compromise Seen Between Republican Regulars and Insurgents In the House. Latter Demand Revision of the House Rules.

Washington, Dec. 4.—More than 300 bills have already been fed into the house hopper.

Of this number 113 provided for the erection or improvement of public buildings, seven for relief of agricultural interests, five for amendments to the judicial code, four for amendments of the immigration laws, three for changes in the revenue act of 1921, three for the exclusion of undesirable aliens, one for loans to disabled veterans, one bonus bill and one providing for the creation of federal districts for local option on prohibition.

Representative Tinch of Kansas contributed a bill that proposes to do away with the railroad labor board and bestow its functions upon the interstate commerce commission. "I believe," he said, "that it is not consistent to create one body for the purpose of telling the railroads how much they may earn, and another body to say how much they may spend, and in what manner they shall spend it. My bill proposes to impose both duties on the interstate commerce commission."

Prediction that a compromise between the regular and insurgent Republicans would be effected were freely made after Republican members had thought over yesterday's tieup.

Representatives Nelson of Wisconsin, chairman of the insurgents; Woodruff of Michigan, secretary, and La Guardia of New York, one of the most active leaders in the insurgent group, stated that an opportunity to liberalize the rules so that progressive legislation may be acted upon is all they demand. They do not insist their amendments be adopted. "If we get a vote and are defeated, then we will take our medicine," said Woodruff. "But we want that vote, and we are confident if we get it, the rules will be liberalized."

Nelson added that "dozens" of Republicans had assured him they would support the movement to modify the rules. He also asserted that the Democrats will join in this fight "overwhelmingly."

Effect of House Tieup.

The house tieup yesterday blocked business in the senate also, for under long-established precedents the senate is obliged not to transact any business of any character until the house has been organized. This prevented senators from introducing bills or resolutions.

Four fruitless ballots for speaker were taken in the house. Democratic members to the number of 195 stood squarely with the 17 insurgents to prevent re-election of Gillett as speaker. The highest vote obtained by Gillett was 198, his lowest 195, and his vote was never within sight of a majority. The first ballot resulted: Gillett, Republican, 198; Garrett, Democrat, 195; Cooper, Insurgent, 17; Madden, Republican, 5; present 4.

Under the ruling made by Vice President Marshall in 1919, that the senate is a continuing body and requires no new election of officers, Senator Cummins, president pro tem of the last congress, called the senate to order. After the chaplain's prayer, the roll of newly elected senators was called and they proceeded in fours to the rostrum to take the oath. Thirty-four senators, including Adams of Colorado, who was appointed to succeed Nicholson; Magnus Johnson of Minnesota, elected to succeed Nelson, and Dale of Vermont elected to succeed Dillingham, were sworn in, the other 31 having been chosen at the fall election. Mayfield of Texas, against whom the klan issue has been raised and who faces a contest of his seat, was twenty-first in the line to take the oath. He had an air of extreme modesty, despite the hullabaloo that had been raised over his election, as he marched down the aisle.

CONSERVATIVES TO WIN

Baldwin Will Return to Power With Small Majority.

London, Dec. 4.—Premier Baldwin's return to power with a small majority is the general prediction of the results of Thursday's elections. Lloyd George forecasts the following distribution of seats: Conservatives 309, Liberals 160, Laborites 140, Independents 6.

If the former premier's estimate is correct it would give Baldwin a clear majority of three in the house, as compared with 77 in the last parliament. Lloyd George claims that the majority in favor of free trade will be at least a million, but that the Conservatives will get the seats because the three-cornered contests will let them in.

Former Premier Asquith also declared that Baldwin will fail to win a majority large enough to justify him substituting protection for free trade. The London Times, basing its figures on an unbiased canvass in all constituencies, gives the Conservatives a majority of between 27 and 59.

Attack Army Airplanes.

Iguuala, Mexico, Dec. 4.—The rebel General Figueroa's force of soldiers and armed civilians again launched an attack against federal airplanes. General Figueroa rebelled against the central government last Friday, and while the airplanes were not damaged as a result of his attack with machine guns, they were forced to land at a greater distance from their base, which is within a couple of miles of Figueroa's stronghold in the mountains. War department orders reveal that the pursuing columns of federal troops have been increased to 5,000.

ACTORS HELD LIABLE

New York Grand Jury to Probe Reputedly Indecent Plays.

New York, Dec. 4.—Judge Cornelius Collins directed the December grand jury to investigate all reputedly indecent theatrical performances in New York and return indictments in all cases where they were warranted.

Both producer and participants were liable, he said, to prosecution under the criminal law and the effectiveness of the law had recently received a satisfactory demonstration in the case of the "God of Vengeance." "This is a clean city," said the judge, "and it must be kept clean, and any act or conduct to the contrary in violation of the law must be repressed. Great care and caution should, of course, be exercised in your inquiry and your proceedings in taking testimony must be governed entirely by the rules of evidence."

Taxi-Plane Line to Lumber Camps.

Menominee, Mich., Dec. 4.—Lumber camps and snowbound towns of the north woods no longer will be isolated with the first heavy snowfall and freeze. Arline Emmes announced that he will operate a taxi-plane equipped with sled runners and snow skids for passenger service in the snowbound areas fringing the lakes.

Greb-Downey Bout.

Pittsburgh, Dec. 4.—Harry Greb successfully defended his world's middleweight title against Bryan Downey of Columbus here. The bout was over the 10-round route to a decision. Greb, who was reported to be going back, showed his old-time "windmill" tactics and speed.

NAVY'S PROJECT AMBITIOUS

Territory Around North Pole to Be Explored.

COOLIDGE INDORSES PROGRAM

Dash Will Start in the Spring and Arrangements Will Be Rushed With All Possible Speed—Giant Dirigible Shenandoah, Relief Ship and Seaplanes to Be Used on the Expedition.

Washington, Dec. 4.—The navy department launched the most ambitious undertaking ever attempted for exploration of the vast territory of sea and ice around the North pole.

Secretary Denby received from President Coolidge cordial written endorsement of the project and appointed a board to convene at once and work out details.

The dash will start in the spring and arrangements will be rushed with all possible speed. Rear Admiral Moffett, chief of the bureau of naval aeronautics, will head the board, which will be made up of distinguished naval officers and Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic society.

The expedition will be headed by Lieutenant Commander Robert Abram Bartlett of the navy reserve force, who has been ordered back to active duty in his old rank. Bartlett is a native of Brigus, Newfoundland, which is his present home address. He assisted Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary in the 1909 dash to the North pole, reaching personally the 88th parallel, and is known as one of the most intrepid explorers in the world.

It can be said with positive assurance that the dirigible Shenandoah, now at her hanger at Lakehurst, N. J., will be used, and that a mooring mast or series of masts will be erected in the far north to extend the range of her activities. An attempt will be made to buy the relief ship "Roosevelt," which is now in service on one of the commercial steamship lines and which was commanded by Bartlett in the Peary expedition. This failing, a vessel of similar type will be bought.

Seaplanes with special gear for landing on ice and on water will be used, and bases for them will be mapped out. They will carry sled runners as auxiliaries, so that they may be able to go over the ice for great distances. Co-operating with the air forces and the relief ship will be a land force of Americans and Eskimos with sledges, dogs and as much food as can be carried.

FORD WILL RENEW NEGOTIATIONS

Muscle Shoals May Soon Pass Into Auto King's Hands.

Washington, Dec. 4.—Henry Ford, automobile magnate, in conference with President Coolidge, reached an agreement to renew negotiations to purchase the Muscle Shoals power project.

Ford will guarantee to manufacture nitrates for fertilizer in peace and equip the plant so that it may immediately be transformed into a war industry to produce the same element for the manufacture of explosives.

It was indicated that the president and the manufacturer are so nearly in accord on the general proposal that the big plant may pass into the hands of Ford within a few months. The one point remaining to be settled is that of a steam plant, to be operated two months in the year when the water power is insufficient. The plant originally intended for this, known as the Gorgas plant, was sold to the Alabama Power company over the protest of Mr. Ford. Ford is said now to have agreed to accept a reduction in his bid for the amount paid for the Gorgas plant. The plant was located 90 miles from the water power project, at a point convenient for the shipment of coal. Mr. Ford is to decide whether it will be an economy to duplicate the Gorgas plant or pay the freight on coal to the water power site.

C. W. Womack and R. E. Vassar, farmers, went fishing with dynamite near Danville, Va. A hand and a foot have been found.

DOINGS IN OHIO

Man's Skeleton Found.

Martins Ferry, O., Dec. 4.—A skeleton believed to be that of Daniel Jones, who was wanted in connection with the murder of Michael Sullivan three years ago, was found near this city. Sullivan, it is believed, had knowledge of the murder of Mrs. John Burkhardt and her daughter, wealthy Martins Ferry women. They were found hacked to death with a hatchet in their home. Jones, it is thought, was named to murder Sullivan in order to protect the gang that killed the Burkhardt women. Jones, in turn, was himself murdered to further protect the actual slayers of the women, in the opinion of authorities.

Woman Held in Diamond Case.

Cleveland, Dec. 4.—Another angle was injected into the Earlrow Diamond case, Brooklyn, with the arrest here of a woman giving her name as Mrs. Margaret Stein, 39, Detroit, on a charge of forgery in connection with the deposit in a local bank of a forged check for $7,000. The woman admitted, police say, that she came to Cleveland upon wire request of Diamond.

Children Burned to Death.

Zanesville, O., Dec. 4.—Two children, Naomi Keith, 6, and Lewis Keith, 2, are dead of burns received when fire destroyed their tent home, near this city, while the parents were visiting neighbors. Residents nearby saw the tent in flames and dragged out three burning children. Olive, 4, was not seriously burned, but Naomi and Lewis were horribly scorched, dying within a few hours.

Deaton Begins Probe.

Steubenville, O., Dec. 4.—Former State Senator Deaton of Urbana arrived here to conduct an investigation of alleged lax law enforcement on the part of Steubenville and Jefferson county authorities. Deaton will spend the week here and will return to Columbus when his investigation is completed to lay his evidence before the attorney general and the governor.

Auto Driver Sentenced.

Cleveland, Dec. 4.—Fred M. Weston, who drove the automobile which dragged Miss Elinore Carleson, stenographer, five blocks, pleaded guilty in criminal court to charges of assault and battery. He was sentenced to six months in the workhouse and fined $200 and costs. Miss Carleson was struck and seriously injured Nov. 2.

Driver Held.

Barberton, O., Dec. 4.—Eddie Butts, 35, colored, is held on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of David Witters, 72, who was run over and killed by a truck. Butts fled after running down Witters, Barberton police say.

Plunged Over Embankment.

Coshocton, O., Dec. 4.—Mrs. Abraham Buckmaster, 43, her 3-year-old daughter, and Willard Richeson, 46, were killed near this city when their auto skidded in some loose dirt and plunged over a 30-foot embankment.

Behind Closed Doors.

Detroit, Dec. 4.—The Ford-for-president conference here Dec. 12 will be behind closed doors and there won't be any seats for "big guns" in politics. This is the word that went out from Dearborn following a meeting of the arrangement committee at Hotel Tuller. Although it has not been decided definitely that the press will be barred from the sessions, the committee designated the last day of the conference as open-house day, when the public will be admitted, and on that day only.

COOLIDGE ACTS IN CRAIG CASE

Remits Sentence Imposed On New York Comptroller.

DAUGHERTY ARRAIGNS CRAIG

Recommended Executive Clemency, However, In Order That the Affairs of Great City Might Not Suffer Through the Official's Imprisonment—Coolidge's Action Not Approved by Several Leaders.

Washington, Dec. 4.—President Coolidge remitted the sentence of Comptroller Charles L. Craig to serve sixty days in jail for contempt of United States Judge Mayer's court.

In this he followed a recommendation of Attorney General Daugherty and court which imposed the sentence. Daugherty's recommendation was a scathing arraignment of Craig. In a four-page letter Judge Mayer said that he was strongly opposed to executive clemency unless Craig should publicly apologize. Daugherty declared that Craig had "contempt on one lip and falsehood on the other," and said that he would recommend clemency only because the affairs of a great city might suffer if its controller should be imprisoned.

The president's action in Craig's case failed to meet the approval by some of the leaders in congress who claimed the right of free speech was involved in this case. The view taken was that the president had not gone into the principle of the matter at all. The effect of the remitting of the sentence was declared to be more of an endorsement of Judge Mayer's course in ordering Craig to jail for alleged contempt than a vindication of the comptroller.

The president's decision, it was asserted, will give further stimulus to the movement to deprive federal judges of the power to sentence citizens to jail without a jury trial. Representatives La Guardia and Stengel announced they would introduce their bills dealing with this question. Stengel's bill will provide that no federal judge shall determine the guilt or innocence of any person whom he has ordered up for contempt committed outside the courtroom.

The La Guardia measure would prohibit the punishment of any person for contempt of a federal court, except where the offense is committed in the presence of the court, unless found guilty after a trial by jury. It further would require that the trial be held in the state where the said contempt shall have been committed and that the trial proceed over by a judge not in any way connected with the case.

OHIO TO HAVE GAS

Federal Supreme Court Hold West Virginia Act Invalid.

Columbus, Dec. 4.—The United States supreme court has affirmed its previous ruling that the West Virginia "Steptoe act" is unconstitutional. The decision removes the danger that Ohio might find itself deprived of its natural gas supplies from the West Virginia fields.

The "Steptoe act," passed by the West Virginia legislature in 1917, authorized that state's public service commission to order that all demands for gas within the state be supplied before any gas could be piped to adjoining states. Validity of the law was attacked in a suit filed by Ohio and Pennsylvania, contending that it interfered with interstate commerce and invalidated contracts under which more than $100,000,000 had been spent in developing the gas fields and building pipe lines to Ohio and Pennsylvania consumers. Nearly 60 per cent of the natural gas used in Ohio comes from West Virginia and approximately 300 Ohio municipalities depend solely upon this supply.

McCray Released on Bond.

Indianapolis, Dec. 4.—Governor Warren T. McCray was formally arrested on the indictments returned against him last week by the Marion county grand jury. McCray was released immediately on $25,000 bond. The capias was served on him in the office of James W. Noel, attorney for the governor. McCray was indicted on 191 counts, charging forgery, embezzlement and grand larceny.

Attacked by Robbers.

Cleveland, Dec. 4.—Four armed bandits held up the clothing store of Joseph Sharwell and two clerks in a rear room and struck a customer over the head of a revolver. After clubbing J. P. Dietrich, the customer, they fled without any loot.

CPENS FIGHT ON "LIBERALS"

Baptist Minister Raps Opponents of Virgin Birth Doctrine.

New York, Dec. 4.—Baptist "fundamentalists" at a mass meeting at calvary Baptist church here, where the initial movement of a nation-wide fight on the "liberals" within the church is being organized, gasped when the Rev. W. L. Peetlingill, D. D., of Philadelphia, made strong statements concerning opponents of the doctrine of virgin birth.

Dr. Peetlingill took as his subject three points upon which he insisted all real Christians must have implicit faith: The divinity of Christ; the virgin birth; the resurrection of the body. "Christ claimed to be God in the flesh, and He either spoke truly or falsely," said Dr. Peetlingill regarding Christ's divinity. "He received and invited worship. If He be God we should worship him; if not we should cast Him out as a blasphemous."

Screen Star Severely Burned.

Los Angeles, Dec. 4.—Edgar Sedgwick, movie director, is confined to his home by a baffling case of what has been pronounced blood poisoning. He has been ill for over a month. Last week his sister, Josie, a leading woman, was stricken with the same malady apparently, and last night another sister, Eileen, noted beauty of the screen, was seriously burned while appearing in the filming of a fire scene at Universal City. The actress' left arm was terribly burned to the shoulder, her face was severely burned, as well as her back and shoulders, and in addition fully half her well known blonde locks were completely burned off.

WANTS BODY SOLD

Slayer of Girl Pleads Guilty to a Charge of Murder.

Houston, Tex., Dec. 4.—Declaring that he did not care what became of his body except that he hoped it would bring $96 with which to pay friends he owed, George Vexenot, French world war hero, entered plea of guilty to the charge of murdering his one-time sweetheart, Miss Louise Floquet. Vexenot declares he knows no fear and welcomes the opportunity to pay with his life for his crime. The Frenchman had been the sweetheart of Miss Floquet until about two months ago, he declared. They quarreled six weeks ago and he killed her. Lawyers representing the defendant expect to prove the aviator was insane at the time of the killing. They entered a formal plea of "not guilty."

Cooper Succeeds Fess.

Washington, Dec. 4.—Republican members of congress from Ohio selected Representative John G. Cooper of Youngstown as the permanent chairman of the Ohio delegation to succeed Sir-eon D. Fess, who has been promoted to the senate. Representative James T. Begg of Sandusky was elected as the Ohio member of the Republican congressional committee to succeed Fess. Representative Nicholas Longworth was re-elected a member of the steering committee.

Fisherman's Lucky Day.

A 14-carat gold band ring was found by John Moore, one of the crew of the fishing schooner Gertrude De Costa, inside a big halibut caught on George bank recently. The ring is a man's size and is believed to have been dropped overboard from some trans-Atlantic liner. Judging from its condition when recovered from the halibut's stomach by Moore, the ring had been lost recently. Moore will wear it, as there is no way of determining the ownership.

"Father of the Chapel."

This term, as applied to the printing industry, is one of religious derivation. When, centuries ago, printing was done in monasteries, it was customary to discuss all matters connected with the work in the chapel, with the father superior in the chair. Hence the term "Father of the Chapel."

Free From Enemies.

The redwood is peculiarly free from enemies. It is rarely wind-blown and the thickness of the bark renders resistance to fire so great that it is almost impossible to kill the trees by burning. Furthermore, the tree is not subject to attacks by insects. About the only way they can be killed or shattered is by a powerful bolt of lightning. By far the greater part of the reproduction of redwood is by sprouts. It is also peculiar in its ability to produce excellent sprouts from very old stumps.

Flaring Lines in Knee-Length Coat

Fashionable Garment Takes Place of Long Type and Short Jacket.

Significant changes have taken place in the lines of coats and dresses and, while a cursory examination of the new styles might lead one to believe that last season's frock could be camouflaged by slight changes into a new model, this is simply a deceptive vision, asserts a fashion authority in the New York Tribune. There is a subtle widening of the line from the knees, and it is like the proverbial inch in a man's stature when one attempts to reconcile it to last year's clothes.

The waistline, too, has moved to a new salient, and, since waistlines are one of fashion's significant marks, this makes a striking difference. The line of spring was somewhere in the vicinity of the hips, while this season the waistline occupies a much lower position and really becomes a hobble around the legs or is absent altogether.

Another type of suit that is popular among the new fashions is the three-quarter length coat and dress. The three-quarter length coat returns to favor after so long a time that the flappers will not remember them at all in any measure of popularity. The knee-length coat lends itself admirably to the new flaring lines and is a refreshing change from the long coat and the eternal short jacket of other seasons. Coats of this type are usually cut flaring and are trimmed with fur—as is almost every garment in Paris.

These suits are often embellished in the fashionable Chinese and Persian motifs. The dress in the combination is generally simple in cut, very often beltless and extravagant-circular effect is very much used in these suits, although there are a goodly number of straight-line tailors as well, without a suggestion of ruffle or godet.

Coats have changed as much as frocks, and the coats we wore last spring have a different appearance that marks in tell-tale manner their age. Coats have no waistline, except in a minority of cases, and the coats that tied on one side are to be seen no more. The flares are everywhere, and very frequently coats show flaring fur bands around the bottom.

Quaint Party Frocks

Chic for Little Girls

Quaint charm is the keynote of party frocks designed for the very small person and in the varied modes one finds that every age and every type of childhood has been studied and frocks created that, while adorably simple, nevertheless emphasize the individuality of each tiny wearer.

There are straight, slim frocks for the child just outgrowing the chubbiness of babyhood and frilly little gowns to adorn the plump little person of three years and between these two a wide range adapted to all ages and all types.

Never have youthful clothes been more delightful, from the most practical of jersey play frocks with collars and cuffs of plaid or Roman striped ribbon, to those brief little affairs of taffeta or crepe de chine which appear on the momentous occasion of a birthday party.

Pastel colored taffeta and crepe are used for these little frocks, with many frills of the material itself or lace as trimming.

Colors and Size.

Large patterns diminish the apparent size of a room. This applies to patterns in wall paper, carpets, rugs and hangings. Dark paper likewise seems to bring the walls closer together. So do the warm, advancing colors, such as shades of red, yellow and orange. Light-colored paper in neutral tones of green, blue, violet and gray tends to make the walls recede, and so to add to the apparent size of a room.

MONDAY CLUB

Hold Interesting Meeting—Egypt Was Country Discussed.

Egypt was the country studied at this week's meeting of the Monday club. Roll call was answered to by giving facts concerning Egypt. Miss Elizabeth Renick gave a most interesting account of her trip along parts of the Nile river when she was in Egypt fifteen years ago.

Egyptian art was ably reviewed by Miss Elizabeth Olds. In the absence of Mrs. Charles May, Mrs. A. L. Wilder gave a brief, but well prepared paper on Port Said and Suez Canal. The club voted to have a departmental program for next year.

After listening to Miss Phelps, the district nurse, tell what good results had been obtained by giving several under nourished children milk in the Walnut street school the past months, the club voted $25 to be used for this purpose in the schools.

The club cleared $151 at the recent concert and wish to thank all who assisted in their success.

WOMAN'S RIGHTS

Men Should Help Wipe Out the Inequalities That Exist Today.

The Lucretia Mott equal rights amendment will be introduced in the U. S. senate by Senator Curtis of Kansas and in the house of representatives by Representative Anthony, of Kansas.

The amendment reads as follows: "Men and women shall have equal rights throughout the United States and every place subject to its jurisdiction."

A deputation of two hundred women presented it to President Coolidge on November 17. Every state in the Union was represented.

Among the chief speakers were: Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, Maud Younger and Mrs. Valentine Winters of Dayton Ohio.

Mrs. Winters is the legislative chairman of the Ohio branch of the National Woman's party. She said in part: "That seven foreign republics have already granted women full equality with men under the law. We need no longer lag behind."

During the last two years a survey of the laws of the separate states has been made. Over sixty inequalities have been found to exist.

These discriminations have come down from the past, when the position of women was most degraded and are not due to the men of today yet it is within the power of the men and women of today to wipe them out.

A few illustrations follow: There are states today where a father may will away his child from its mother; where a husband owns and can collect his wife's earnings, be she school teacher or washwoman; where a married woman may not teach in the public schools; while in more than half the states in this country women may not serve upon juries.

The place for all fundamental principles of justice is in the constitution. It is the supreme law of the land and is all inclusive and with one stroke, would wipe out, not only the present inequalities but would prevent new ones from being made.

DEVICE TO SAVE HELIUM PERFECTED BY EXPERTS

U. S. Bureau Finds Method of Retrieving and Utilizing Waste Moisture From Gas.

Acting in co-operation with the army air service, the bureau of standards at Washington has perfected apparatus which will enable the saving of enormous amounts of helium, the non-inflammable but scarce and costly gas with which the Shenandoah is now inflated. The apparatus in question is a new condenser for retrieving moisture in the exhaust gases from the engine, rendering it unnecessary to valve helium.

To maintain the equilibrium of an airship inflated with either helium or hydrogen it is necessary at times to "valve," that is, to permit some of the gas to escape to compensate for the weight of the fuel consumed by the engines, or to overcome the expansion of the gas caused by the heat of the sun's rays.

This need for the "valving" of helium used in rigid airships was one of the reasons why it was so difficult to get enough of the expensive, safe gas to substitute for the hydrogen inflation which caused many disasters in the past.

How to compensate for the weight of fuel lost and also to maintain the lifting gas at an even temperature so as to conserve helium presented a difficult problem. As early as 1915 the British government made some efforts in the direction of the recovery of the water vapor component formed as a product of combustion from the exhaust gases of the engine, but the results achieved were not of sufficient promise to warrant the continuation of tests.

The information gained through these experiments proved of value when work began on the project for the army air service. While the experiments were financed and sponsored by the army air service, it was the scientists at the bureau of standards who worked out a practical solution of the problem and developed a successful device.

YOUNG WASHINGTON GIRL SEEKS MASTER'S DEGREE

Dorothy Stevens of Washington is the youngest girl that we know who has a bachelor of arts degree. Dorothy is nineteen and was graduated from George Washington university, and is now studying for her master's degree. But Miss Stevens emphatically declares that she doesn't want to be known as a "bookworm," and her friends declare they can't understand "how she does it," for she is rarely seen with "her face in a book" and is the jolliest sort of playmate. Here she is just learning to play mah jong.

PARROT'S CALLS SAVE LIFE

Repeats Woman's Cries for Help in Waters of Lake.

The parrot at the home of Leslie Muller, on the shore of Island lake near Shelton, Wash., is deserving of a hero medal, the Muller family believes.

Mrs. Bullock, housekeeper for the Mullers, fell into the lake while fishing. Her cries for help were not heard by men working in the barn, but the parrot excitedly repeated the calls with such effect that the men responded and swam to the woman just in time to save her life.

AMUSEMENTS

One of the sweetest romance stories ever told on the screen is the Paramount picture, "The Trial of the Lonesome Pine," starring Mary Miles Minter, which opened at the Met theater last night.

The star, in the role of a comely girl of the Cumberland mountains in Kentucky, is a leading figure of one of the most bloody family feuds ever waged. Antonio Moreno, in the leading man's role of John Hale, is prospecting for coal about the home of June Tolliver (Miss Minter). He finds the site promising and takes an option on the property and at the same time on the girl's heart.

Hale, as an officer of the law, arrests a member of June's family for murder and in so doing rekindles the long smoldering feud existing between the Tolliver and Falin families. In the fighting that ensues, Hale is wounded and cared for by June. The girl's love for Hale is the means of reconciling the Falins and the Tollivers and June and Hale are married.

The work of Miss Minter and Mr. Moreno is most commendable. The star is supported by an able cast, including Edwin Brady, Frances Warner J. S. Stenbridge and Cullen Tate. Ernest Torrence has a featured role. The late John Fox Jr., was author of the novel from which Will M. Ritchey made the adaptation. Charles Maigne directed.

Hotel Stenographer

BY ROE FULKERSON

"It's a nasty day," said the House Detective.

"Kelly" replied the Hotel Stenographer don't the statisticians, employed by the government figure up the time people waste talking about the weather? You can't blame anybody about the weather, and altho we talk about it a lot, I never heard of anybody trying to do anything about it. It's all up in the air, Kelly. The air is responsible for a lot of waste.

"If the air gets too hot we blow our dough for georgette and crepe de chine to make us comfortable. Just about when we are thru paying for we have to buy furs and woolen summer things, the air turns cold and undies, and all, to keep from freezing.

"If the air is wet, we buy umbrellas and taxicabs and overshoes and if it is dry we water the lawns and sprinkle the streets.

"If the air gets too close it is poisonous; and if we let in a draft, we catch the sniffles and have a day out of petting parties.

"Too much hot air makes us bored, and people with a superior air make us mad. If we meet people with a humble air, we want to kick 'em. The whole subject of air and weather is a waste of time and money and causes a lot of trouble.

"I am sick of talking about it, and if you cannot think of anything any more entertaining than the air and the weather, you need not park yourself here by my desk and waste my time."

"You don't like to talk about the weather" asked the House Detective. "No!" she snapped.

"I hope I never happen around here when you find something like that to talk about," said Kelly, walking away with an offended air.

Bible Thought for Today

MAN IS GOD'S IMAGE.—And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness: and let them have dominion over all the earth. So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him: male and female created he them.—Gen. 1:26, 27.

PAVING

Of Northridge Road is Completed and is Splendid Piece of Work.

The Northridge road better known as the Ringgold pike, was finished and thrown open to travel Monday afternoon.

Work was begun on the road August 15, last. The contract was let to McHugh Brothers, James J., and Joseph A. McHugh, of Springfield.

The road is paved with wire cut Logan brick laid on concrete base and cushion with a concrete curb and apron. It took 175,000 brick to cover the surface of the road between curb. The road is thirty feet wide and 1519 feet long. Asphalt was used as filler.

A delay of three weeks occurred during the work, caused by a breakage in the machinery. The contractors were fortunate in having exceptionally good weather in which to rush the work thru. The job is as fine a piece of road paving as has been completed in this county.

The survey work on the job was done by the city civil engineer, Thomas Moore, the grades are gradual and water was taken care of by storm water sewers, which were built before the road was surfaced. The inspection was taken care of under the supervision of Ex-sheriff W. H. Warner.

Including the surveying and sewerage the total cost of the paved road will be $24,000.

CHRISTMAS SEALS

Sale is Now on—Money Used in the Tuberculosis Campaign.

The annual roll call of American Red Cross which started on Armistice day came to a close November 29th. As in previous years there is an agreement between the Red Cross and the National Tuberculosis association that there is to be no overlapping of the Red Cross campaign into the Christmas Seal sale which starts December 1st.

Christmas Seal agents and local Red Cross workers have been notified again that there is no connection between the Red Cross roll call and the Tuberculosis Christmas Seal sale. Many newspapers still refer to the Christmas Seals as Red Cross Seals. Both organizations are anxious to avoid this confusion and local seal agents should take pains to point out that there is no connection between the two movements.

Money derived from the Christmas Seal sale goes to the local state and national organization affiliated in tuberculosis campaign.

Stenographers Long Employed.

It is not generally known that stenography as a profession was followed as long ago as the days of the Roman empire. Poets, who are sometimes ridiculed nowadays for having private stenographers, had them in the fourth century of our era.

American Weights Wrong.

The United States bureau of standards reports that many of the weights submitted by American makers for test have been unsatisfactory. This has caused such great delay and inconvenience that one of the largest dealers is already considering the advisability of importing at least those weights which are to be certified by the bureau. Apparently the trouble is mainly due to insufficient factory inspection.

SOAR OVER ICE PEAKS IN PLANE

Explorers Cross Lofty Crags in
Flying Boat—Wonderful
Pictures of Scenery.

Spitzbergen.—Flying over jagged ice-clad Arctic mountain crags in a seaplane with "knocking" motor provides the thrill of thrills—it is no sport for one with a weak heart. Such a trip was made by W. Mittelholzer, a Swiss aviator who has charge of the aviation expedition sent to Spitzbergen to co-operate with Amundsen in his attempt to fly from Point Barrow to Spitzbergen. He took with him an all-metal Junker seaplane to relieve Amundsen should the latter be compelled to land in the course of his long flight. Though Amundsen's failure was known before Mittelholzer reached Spitzbergen, he made use of his opportunity to make interesting aerial reconnaissances, which he describes in the Neue Zürcher Zeitung in an article translated in the Living Age as follows:

Engine Starts to Knock.
I determined to cross over the Chydenius range, which culminates in crystalline pinnacle of Newtontop at a height of nearly 6,000 feet, and thence across the 50 or 60 miles of mountainous country to Hinlopen strait.

My pilot Neumann, was a veteran seaplane operator. The great ice field lay before us. On both sides vast glaciers, framed in rugged cliffs, descended into the deep blue water. To the northward rose a sea of peaks and pinnacles, whose violet hues stood out with knife-like sharpness against the golden-yellow horizon. To the southward one snowy dome followed another under an azure blue Italian heaven, beyond which our gaze seemed to lose itself in infinity.

But what ailed our motor? When ever Neumann gave it more gas it would knock distressingly. I left it to Neumann to decide whether we should turn back, but he motioned vigorously ahead, throttled down his motor as much as possible and trusted to his "flyer's luck" not to leave us in the lurch.

Take Pictures of Scenery.
We were only 5,000 feet above the sea and Newtontop still towered above us. When Neumann gave the motor more gas to rise higher, it began to knock again, so our only recourse was to find a way through the mountain passes, where we were violently tossed hither and thither by powerful wind currents. We would glide above deep abysses, skirt, glittering bluish-green ice precipices, and turn sharply this way and that in order to record on our films as much as possible of the glorious, awe-inspiring scenery on either hand. Neumann performed his task with coolness and courage.

For nearly half an hour we threaded our way with many a twist and turn amid the highest peaks of Spitzbergen—in a seaplane! Leaving our lofty mountain companions we were soon speeding over a mighty glacier, where we could easily have made a landing almost anywhere.

Only Two Survivors of Ancient Indian Tribe

Seattle.—The last surviving members of the Chemakum tribe of Indians have been discovered living in one of the old villages of the Chillum tribe along the straits of Juan de Fuca. They are an old man and his sister. They have forgotten almost all of their own language, but Prof. Franz Boas of Columbia university succeeded in 1890 in extracting 1,200 Chemakum words from them. It is believed that centuries before white men came to Puget sound the Chemakum inhabited the whole northern part of the Olympic peninsula and were a powerful tribe.

Boy Loses Hand While Feeding Bear in Zoo

U. S. Gob to Lose
His Flat Hat Soon
Washington.—Abolition of the blue, flat hat, which has characterized U. S. bluejackets almost from the inception of the navy, will be recommended to the Secretary of the Navy if a suitable substitute can be found by the board of officers investigating proposed changes in the uniform, it was learned.
Disadvantages of the old "sailor" type of headgear, such as the difficulty of keeping it on when the wind is blowing and the ease with which it wrinkles, long have been apparent, but search for a substitute has been fruitless thus far.

Pactolus.
Pactolus was the ancient name of a small river in Lydia, Asia Minor, whose waters were said to flow over golden sands. In classic myth, Midas, king of Phrygia, foolishly besought Dionysus that all things he touched should be changed to gold. His prayer was granted, but as even the food he touched was transmuted into the precious metal, Midas implored the god to revoke the gift. He was therefore ordered to bathe in the River Pactolus, which ever after flowed over golden sands. The gold found in the bed of this river was, in reality, from Mt. Tmolus, and, according to tradition, was the principal source of wealth of the Lydian kings.

Increasing Yield of Tubers by Spraying

Average Gain of 60 Bushels
Per Acre in New York.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

With few exceptions, large gains in yield have been obtained by spraying potatoes as a protection against insect pests and diseases, says Farmers' Bulletin 1349, "Increasing the Potato Crop by Spraying," just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. This fact has been established by extensive experiments conducted in New York and Vermont. During a 10-year period, at different experiment stations in New York state, an average gain of 60 bushels an acre was obtained. At the Vermont station, during a 20-year period, which involved all possible seasonal variations, an average gain of 105 bushels an acre, or 64 per cent over the unsprayed, resulted.

In addition, records taken from a business point of view on a series of experiments of a nine-year duration, conducted by farmers under the direction of the New York state experiment station, show large gains. The average cost of spraying, including materials, labor and wear and tear on machinery, was $4.74 an acre. The nine-year average increase in yield due to spraying was 36 bushels an acre, making a net profit of $14.43 an acre. When these experiments were conducted the cost of materials was less than at the time the bulletin was written, but the increased product warrants an increased expenditure.

Copies of the bulletin may be obtained, as long as the supply lasts, by writing to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Takes Brains and Pains to Produce Winter Eggs

Whistling, or speaking gently, or knocking on the door to let the hens know when he is coming, will save the poultryman several eggs in the day's gathering, says Prof. Willard C. Thompson, poultry husbandman of the New Jersey experiment station, in a circular on "The Winter-Time Management of the Laying Flock."

Fright, he goes on to say, is often fatal to and always interferes with normal egg production. Hence the necessity of having the poultryman move slowly through the pens.

Fresh air in the laying house at all times is another essential to maximum egg production, according to Professor Thompson. The reasons for the necessity of having fresh air are that the expiring breath of fowls is heavily laden with moisture, as it carries many liquid waste products of the body processes, which in other animals are given off through the sweat glands and through the urinary system.

Moisture in the expiring breath of fowls, if not carried out of the house, saturates the atmosphere and creates dampness quickly. The poisons in the expiring breath of fowls when reinhaled, cannot but deplete the vitality of the birds.

Then, because there are usually a large number of fowls per unit of floor space, all the air that can possibly be given should be furnished.

Heavy dry mash consumption is one of the principal requirements which the author mentions for a good supply of eggs in winter.

Nicotine Treatment for Stomach Worms of Sheep

Forty per cent nicotine sulphate is better than copper sulphate for getting rid of stomachworms of sheep, recent tests show. The nicotine sulphate is easier to get, is more efficient, and the after effects of treatment do not last so long. Three teaspoonfuls to a quart of water is the right strength, and give four ounces of this solution to each mature ewe that weighs 100 pounds or more. For a smaller animal, more or less weak, use not more than three ounces, and for a five-months-old lamb, use not more than two ounces.

Good Winter Ration for Eggs Is Easily Mixed

A good winter ration for eggs is as follows: Scratch feed, 200 pounds shelled or cracked corn, 100 pounds for each day, then the meat scraps or oats or wheat. With this feed as a mash, 100 pounds cornmeal, 100 pounds ground oats, 100 pounds wheat middlings, 100 pounds wheat bran and 100 pounds meat scraps or tankage. If you have 4 gallons of milk per 100 hens tankage may be omitted.

Pork From Fall Pigs Produced Economically

The man who has reasonably warm quarters for his fall pigs and who gives them the right attention in connection with feeding can produce pork almost as economically from fall as from spring pigs. Frequently he can make more money out of fall pigs, because if sold early in the spring hogs usually bring better prices than when the bulk of the spring pigs is sold.

Silage Undesirable for Feeding Poultry Flock

Although silage is a good succulent feed, it is a dangerous practice to feed it to poultry. Silage sometimes contains a slight mold which cannot be detected by the eye and it is this that makes it undesirable for poultry feed. This department advises the elimination of silage from the ration and in its place the addition of sprouted oats.

Thoreau an Independent Man.
Thoreau was never married. He was a solitary man.

The chief element in his character was independence. He must live his own life and go his own way. He said: "Nothing is so much to be feared as fear. The sin that God hates is fear. He thinks atheism innocent in comparison."

He wrote in his diary: "If I do not keep step with others it is because I hear a different drummer. Let a man step to the music which he hears, however measured and however far away."

He went to jail because he would not pay his poll tax, on the ground that the government supported slavery. No one wanted to arrest him. The man who took him in custody offered to pay the tax.—Ladies' Home Journal.

BADLY INJURED

Judson Kochensperger Thrown From Wheel and Rendered Unconscious
Judson Kochensperger, son of Mrs. Charles Kochensperger was badly injured Monday evening on East Main street, when the bicycle he was riding skidded on the slippery street in front of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fickardt. The boy, who is 13 years of age was thrown headlong against the curb sustaining a deep cut over the left eye rendering him unconscious. He was found by Miss Kathleen Morehouse and Earl Imbler, who were on their way home about eight o'clock. They at once notified the police department and the boy was taken to his home where his wounds were dressed by Dr. Heffner.

It was at first thought that the boy was hit by a passing automobile but on investigation it was found that this was not the fact as marks on the curb and a tree nearby plainly show where the accident occurred. The track of the wheel was plainly visible in the street.

The boy recovered consciousness this morning but is unable to tell how the accident happened. He was on his way to pay dues at the Building & Loan office, when the accident happened. Shortly before the accident he had visited at the home of his sister, Mrs. Leroy Justus on East Main street.

"The Store That Treats You Right"

It's Days Like Yesterday
That Makes Friends for
Colwell & Katz's

When things are frozen solid is when men get right down to solid facts.

Yesterday this store put several feathers in its cap because it had the warm caps ---the lined coats and the heavy pants.

We secured a foothold in dozens of homes because of warm hose---heavy underwear and our flannel shirts.

Men who came here for warm O'coats found them at sane affordable prices.

It's a sort of mean thing to wish---but we hope tomorrow is stormy again for that is when we blow up the most new friends.

HOST OF BILLS BEFORE SOLONS

One Would Do Away With Railroad Labor Board.

RELIEF OF FARMERS SOUGHT

Seven Measures Launched in Behalf of Agricultural Interests—Compromise Seen Between Republican Regulars and Insurgents in the House. Latter Demand Revision of the House Rules.

Washington, Dec. 4.—More than 300 bills have already been fed into the house hopper.

Of this number 113 provided for the erection or improvement of public buildings, seven for relief of agricultural interests, five for amendments to the judicial code, four for amendments of the immigration laws, three for changes in the revenue act of 1921, three for the exclusion of undesirable aliens, one for loans to disabled veterans, one bonus bill and one providing for the creation of federal districts for local option on prohibition.

Representative Tinch of Kansas contributed a bill that proposes to do away with the railroad labor board and bestow its functions upon the interstate commerce commission. "I believe," he said, "that it is not consistent to create one body for the purpose of telling the railroads how much they may earn, and another body to say how much they may spend, and in what manner they shall spend it. My bill proposes to impose both duties on the interstate commerce commission."

Prediction that a compromise between the regular and insurgent Republicans would be effected were freely made after Republican members had thought over yesterday's tieup.

Representatives Nelson of Wisconsin, chairman of the insurgents; Woodruff of Michigan, secretary, and La Guardia of New York, one of the most active leaders in the insurgent group, stated that an opportunity to liberalize the rules so that progressive legislation may be acted upon is all they demand. They do not insist their amendments be adopted. "If we get a vote and are defeated, then we will take our medicine," said Woodruff. "But we want that vote, and we are confident if we get it, the rules will be liberalized."

Nelson added that "dozens" of Republicans had assured him they would support the movement to modify the rules. He also asserted that the Democrats will join in this fight "overwhelmingly."

Effect of House Tieup.
The house tieup yesterday blocked business in the senate also, for under long-established precedents the senate is obliged not to transact any business of any character until the house has been organized. This prevented senators from introducing bills or resolutions.

Four fruitless ballots for speaker were taken in the house. Democratic members to the number of 195 stood squarely with the 17 insurgents to prevent re-election of Gillett as speaker. The highest vote obtained by Gillett was 198, his lowest 195, and his vote was never within sight of a majority. The first ballot resulted: Gillett, Republican, 198; Garrett, Democrat, 195; Cooper, Insurgent, 17; Madden, Republican, 5; present 4.

Under the ruling made by Vice President Marshall in 1919, that the senate is a continuing body and requires no new election of officers, Senator Cummins, president pro tem of the last congress, called the senate to order. After the chaplain's prayer, the roll of newly elected senators was called and they proceeded in fours to the rostrum to take the oath. Thirty-four senators, including Adams of Colorado, who was appointed to succeed Nicholson; Magnus Johnson of Minnesota, elected to succeed Nelson, and Dale of Vermont elected to succeed Dillingham, were sworn in, the other 31 having been chosen at the fall election. Mayfield of Texas, against whom the klan issue has been raised and who faces a contest of his seat, was twenty-first in the line to take the oath. He had an air of extreme modesty, despite the hullabaloo that had been raised over his election, as he marched down the aisle.

CONSERVATIVES TO WIN

Baldwin Will Return to Power With Small Majority.

London, Dec. 4.—Premier Baldwin's return to power with a small majority is the general prediction of the results of Thursday's elections. Lloyd George forecasts the following distribution of seats: Conservatives 309, Liberals 160, Laborites 140, Independents 6.

If the former premier's estimate is correct it would give Baldwin a clear majority of three in the house, as compared with 77 in the last parliament. Lloyd George claims that the majority in favor of free trade will be at least a million, but that the Conservatives will get the seats because the three-cornered contests will let them in.

Former Premier Asquith also declared that Baldwin will fail to win a majority large enough to justify him substituting protection for free trade. The London Times, basing its figures on an unbiased canvass in all constituencies, gives the Conservatives a majority of between 27 and 59.

Attack Army Airplanes.
Iguala, Mexico, Dec. 4.—The rebel General Figueroa's force of soldiers and armed civilians again launched an attack against federal airplanes. General Figueroa rebelled against the central government last Friday, and while the airplanes were not damaged as a result of his attack with machine guns, they were forced to land at a greater distance from their base, which is within a couple of miles of Figueroa's stronghold in the mountains. War department orders reveal that the pursuing columns of federal troops have been increased to 5,000.

ACTORS HELD LIABLE

New York Grand Jury to Probe Reputedly Indecent Plays.

New York, Dec. 4.—Judge Cornelius Collins directed the December grand jury to investigate all reputedly indecent theatrical performances in New York and return indictments in all cases where they were warranted.

Both producer and participants were liable, he said, to prosecution under the criminal law and the effectiveness of the law had recently received a satisfactory demonstration in the case of the "God of Vengeance." "This is a clean city," said the judge, "and it must be kept clean, and any act or conduct to the contrary in violation of the law must be repressed. Great care and caution should, of course, be exercised in your inquiry and your proceedings in taking testimony must be governed entirely by the rules of evidence."

Taxi-Plane Line to Lumber Camps.
Menominee, Mich., Dec. 4.—Lumber camps and snowbound towns of the north woods no longer will be isolated with the first heavy snowfall and freeze. Arline Emmes announced that he will operate a taxi-plane equipped with sled runners and snow skids for passenger service in the snowbound areas fringing the lakes.

Greb-Downey Bout.

Pittsburgh, Dec. 4.—Harry Greb successfully defended his world's middleweight title against Bryan Downey of Columbus here. The bout was over the 10-round route to a decision. Greb, who was reported to be going back, showed his old-time "windmill" tactics and speed.

NAVY'S PROJECT AMBITIOUS

Territory Around North Pole to Be Explored.

COOLIDGE INDORSES PROGRAM

Dash Will Start in the Spring and Arrangements Will Be Rushed With All Possible Speed—Giant Dirigible Shenandoah, Relief Ship and Seaplanes to Be Used on the Expedition.

Washington, Dec. 4.—The navy department launched the most ambitious undertaking ever attempted for exploration of the vast territory of sea and ice around the North pole.

Secretary Denby received from President Coolidge cordial written endorsement of the project and appointed a board to convene at once and work out details.

The dash will start in the spring and arrangements will be rushed with all possible speed. Rear Admiral Moffett, chief of the bureau of naval aeronautics, will head the board, which will be made up of distinguished naval officers and Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic society.

The expedition will be headed by Lieutenant Commander Robert Abram Bartlett of the navy reserve force, who has been ordered back to active duty in his old rank. Bartlett is a native of Brigus, Newfoundland, which is his present home address. He assisted Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary in the 1909 dash to the North pole, reaching personally the 88th parallel, and is known as one of the most intrepid explorers in the world.

It can be said with positive assurance that the dirigible Shenandoah, now at her hanger at Lakehurst, N. J., will be used, and that a mooring mast or series of masts will be erected in the far north to extend the range of her activities. An attempt will be made to buy the relief ship "Roosevelt," which is now in service on one of the commercial steamship lines and which was commanded by Bartlett in the Peary expedition. This failing, a vessel of similar type will be bought.

Seaplanes with special gear for landing on ice and on water will be used, and bases for them will be mapped out. They will carry sled runners as auxiliaries, so that they may be able to go over the ice for great distances. Co-operating with the air forces and the relief ship will be a land force of Americans and Eskimos with sledges, dogs and as much food as can be carried.

FORD WILL RENEW NEGOTIATIONS

Muscle Shoals May Soon Pass Into Auto King's Hands.

Washington, Dec. 4.—Henry Ford, automobile magnate, in conference with President Coolidge, reached an agreement to renew negotiations to purchase the Muscle Shoals power project.

Ford will guarantee to manufacture nitrates for fertilizer in peace and equip the plant so that it may immediately be transformed into a war industry to produce the same element for the manufacture of explosives.

It was indicated that the president and the manufacturer are so nearly in accord on the general proposal that the big plant may pass into the hands of Ford within a few months. The one point remaining to be settled is that of a steam plant, to be operated two months in the year when the water power is insufficient. The plant originally intended for this, known as the Gorgas plant, was sold to the Alabama Power company over the protest of Mr. Ford. Ford is said now to have agreed to accept a reduction in his bid for the amount paid for the Gorgas plant. The plant was located 90 miles from the water power project, at a point convenient for the shipment of coal. Mr. Ford is to decide whether it will be an economy to duplicate the Gorgas plant or pay the freight on coal to the water power site.

C. W. Womack and R. E. Vassar, farmers, went fishing with dynamite near Danville, Va. A hand and a foot have been found.

DOINGS IN OHIO

Man's Skeleton Found.
Martins Ferry, O., Dec. 4.—A skeleton believed to be that of Daniel Jones, who was wanted in connection with the murder of Michael Sullivan three years ago, was found near this city. Sullivan, it is believed, had knowledge of the murder of Mrs. John Burkhardt and her daughter, wealthy Martins Ferry women. They were found hacked to death with a hatchet in their home. Jones, it is thought, was named to murder Sullivan in order to protect the gang that killed the Burkhardt women. Jones, in turn, was himself murdered to further protect the actual slayers of the women, in the opinion of authorities.

Woman Held in Diamond Case.
Cleveland, Dec. 4.—Another angle was injected into the Earlwig Diamond case, Brooklyn, with the arrest here of a woman giving her name as Mrs. Margaret Stein, 39, Detroit, on a charge of forgery in connection with the deposit in a local bank of a forged check for $7,000. The woman admitted, police say, that she came to Cleveland upon wire request of Diamond.

Children Burned to Death.
Zanesville, O., Dec. 4.—Two children, Naomi Keith, 6, and Lewis Keith, 2, are dead of burns received when their destroyed their tent home, near this city, while the parents were visiting neighbors. Residents nearby saw the tent in flames and dragged out three burning children. Olive, 4, was not seriously burned, but Naomi and Lewis were horribly scorched, dying within a few hours.

Deaton Begins Probe.
Steubenville, O., Dec. 4.—Former State Senator Deaton of Urbana arrived here to conduct an investigation of alleged lax law enforcement on the part of Steubenville and Jefferson county authorities. Deaton will spend the week here and will return to Columbus when his investigation is completed to lay his evidence before the attorney general and the governor.

Auto Driver Sentenced.
Cleveland, Dec. 4.—Fred M. Weston, who drove the automobile which dragged Miss Elinore Carleson, stenographer, five blocks, pleaded guilty in criminal court to charges of assault and battery. He was sentenced to six months in the workhouse and fined $200 and costs. Miss Carleson was struck and seriously injured Nov. 2.

Driver Held.
Barberton, O., Dec. 4.—Eddie Butts, 35, colored, is held on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of David Witters, 72, who was run over and killed by a truck. Butts fled after running down Witters, Barberton police say.

Plunged Over Embankment.
Coshocton, O., Dec. 4.—Mrs. Abraham Buckmaster, 43, her 3-year-old daughter, and Willard Richeson, 46, were killed near this city when their auto skidded in some loose dirt and plunged over a 30-foot embankment.

Behind Closed Doors.
Detroit, Dec. 4.—The Ford-for-president conference here Dec. 12 will be behind closed doors and there won't be any seats for "big guns" in politics. This is the word that went out from Dearborn following a meeting of the arrangement committee at Hotel Tuiler. Although it has not been decided definitely that the press will be barred from the sessions, the committee designated the last day of the conference as open-house day, when the public will be admitted, and on that day only.

COOLIDGE ACTS IN CRAIG CASE

Remits Sentence Imposed On New York Comptroller.

DAUGHERTY ARRAIGNS CRAIG

Recommended Executive Clemency, However, in Order That the Affairs of Great City Might Not Suffer Through the Official's Imprisonment—Coolidge's Action Not Approved by Several Leaders.

Washington, Dec. 4.—President Coolidge remitted the sentence of Comptroller Charles L. Craig to serve sixty days in jail for contempt of United States Judge Mayer's court.

In this he followed a recommendation of Attorney General Daugherty and court which imposed the sentence. Daugherty's recommendation was a scathing arraignment of Craig. In a four-page letter Judge Mayer said that he was strongly opposed to executive clemency unless Craig should publicly apologize. Daugherty declared that Craig had "contempt on one lip and falsehood on the other," and said that he would recommend clemency only because the affairs of a great city might suffer if its controller should be imprisoned.

The president's action in Craig's case failed to meet the approval by some of the leaders in congress who claimed the right of free speech was involved in this case. The view taken was that the president had not gone into the principle of the matter at all. The effect of the remitting of the sentence was declared to be more of an endorsement of Judge Mayer's course in ordering Craig to jail for alleged contempt than a vindication of the comptroller.

The president's decision, it was asserted, will give further stimulus to the movement to deprive federal judges of the power to sentence citizens to jail without a jury trial. Representatives La Guardia and Stengel announced they would introduce their bills dealing with this question. Stengel's bill will provide that no federal judge shall determine the guilt or innocence of any person whom he has ordered up for contempt committed outside the courtroom.

The La Guardia measure would prohibit the punishment of any person for contempt of a federal court, except where the offense is committed in the presence of the court, unless found guilty after a trial by jury. It further would require that the trial be held in the state where the said contempt shall have been committed and that the trial persist over by a judge not in any way connected with the case.

OHIO TO HAVE GAS

Federal Supreme Court Holds West Virginia Act Invalid.

Columbus, Dec. 4.—The United States supreme court has affirmed its previous ruling that the West Virginia "Steptoe act" is unconstitutional. The decision removes the danger that Ohio might find itself deprived of its natural gas supplies from the West Virginia fields.

The "Steptoe act," passed by the West Virginia legislature in 1917, authorized that state's public service commission to order that all demands for gas within the state be supplied before any gas could be piped to adjoining states. Validity of the law was attacked in a suit filed by Ohio and Pennsylvania, contending that it interfered with interstate commerce and invalidated contracts under which more than $100,000,000 had been spent in developing the gas fields and building pipe lines to Ohio and Pennsylvania consumers. Nearly 60 per cent of the natural gas used in Ohio comes from West Virginia and approximately 300 Ohio municipalities depend solely upon this supply.

McCray Released on Bond.
Indianapolis, Dec. 4.—Governor Warren T. McCray was formally arrested on the indictments returned against him last week by the Marion county grand jury. McCray was released immediately on $25,000 bond. The capias was served on him in the office of James W. Noel, attorney for the governor. McCray was indicted on 191 counts, charging forgery, embezzlement and grand larceny.

Attacked by Robbers.
Cleveland, Dec. 4.—Four armed bandits held up the clothing store of Joseph Sharwell and two clerks in a rear room and struck a customer over the head of a revolver. After clubbing J. P. Dietrich, the customer, they fled without any loot.

CPENS FIGHT ON "LIBERALS"

Baptist Minister Raps Opponents of Virgin Birth Doctrine.

New York, Dec. 4.—Baptist "fundamentalists" at a mass meeting at a variety Baptist church here, where initial movement of a nation-wide fight on the "liberals" within the church is being organized, gasped when the Rev. W. L. Peetingill, D. D., of Philadelphia, made strong statements concerning opponents of the doctrine of virgin birth.

Dr. Peetingill took as his subject three points upon which he insisted all real Christians must have implicit faith: The divinity of Christ; the virgin birth; the resurrection of the body. "Christ claimed to be God in the flesh, and He either spoke truly or falsely," said Dr. Peetingill regarding Christ's divinity. "He received and invited worship. If He be God we should worship him; if not we should cast him out as a blasphemous."

Screen Star Severely Burned.

Los Angeles, Dec. 4.—Edgar Sedgwick, movie director, is confined to his home by a baffling case of what has been pronounced blood poisoning. He has been ill for over a month. Last week his sister, Josie, a leading woman, was stricken with the same malady apparently, and last night another sister, Eileen, noted beauty of the screen, was seriously burned while appearing in the filming of a fire scene at Universal City. The actress' left arm was terribly burned to the shoulder, her face was severely burned, as well as her back and shoulders, and in addition fully half her well known blonde locks were completely burned off.

WANTS BODY SOLD

Slayer of Girl Pleads Guilty to a Charge of Murder.

Houston, Tex., Dec. 4.—Declaring that he did not care what became of his body except that he hoped it would bring $96 with which to pay friends he owed, George Vexenot, French world war hero, entered plea of guilty to the charge of murdering his one-time sweetheart, Miss Louise Floquet. Vexenot declares he knows no fear and welcomes the opportunity to pay with his life for his crime. The Frenchman had been the sweetheart of Miss Floquet until about two months ago, he declared. They quarreled six weeks ago and he killed her.

Lawyers representing the defendant expect to prove the aviator was insane at the time of the killing. They entered a formal plea of "not guilty."

Cooper Succeeds Fess.

Washington, Dec. 4.—Republican members of congress from Ohio selected Representative John G. Cooper of Youngstown as the permanent chairman of the Ohio delegation to succeed Simeon D. Fess, who has been promoted to the senate. Representative James T. Begg of Sandusky was elected as the Ohio member of the Republican congressional committee to succeed Fess. Representative Nicholas Longworth was re-elected a member of the steering committee.

Fisherman's Lucky Day.
A 14-carat gold band ring was found by John Moore, one of the crew of the fishing schooner Gertrude De Costa, inside a big halibut caught on George bank recently. The ring is a man's size and is believed to have been dropped overboard from some trans-Atlantic liner. Judging from its condition when recovered from the halibut's stomach by Moore, the ring had been lost recently. Moore will wear it, as there is no way of determining the ownership.

"Father of the Chapel."
This term, as applied to the printing industry, is one of religious derivation. When, centuries ago, printing was done in monasteries, it was customary to discuss all matters connected with the work in the chapel, with the father superior in the chair. Hence the term "Father of the Chapel."

MAYOR'S COURT
In mayor's court Cash Radcliff, of Jackson township, was fined $5 for assaulting Creighton Wolf.

William Vest fined $100 and cost for having liquor in his possession.

On the charge of disorderly conduct William "Red" Mounts, Nelson Walters and Sadie Greentree paid $25 each and Charles Goeller $50 into the city treasury. The arrests were made early Sunday morning. The woman was ordered out of town.

With a Big "If."
It has been estimated that had there been no wars and no epidemics the present population of the world, 1,519,000,000 people, could have descended from a single couple in 1,782 years or since 138 A. D.

Free From Enemies.
The redwood is peculiarly free from enemies. It is rarely wind-blown and the thickness of the bark renders resistance to fire so great that it is almost impossible to kill the trees by burning. Furthermore, the tree is not subject to attacks by insects. About the only way they can be killed or shattered is by a powerful bolt of lightning. By far the greater part of the reproduction of redwood is by sprouts. It is also peculiar in its ability to produce excellent sprouts from very old stumps.

Flaring Lines in Knee-Length Coat

Fashionable Garment Takes Place of Long Type and Short Jacket.

Significant changes have taken place in the lines of coats and dresses and, while a cursory examination of the new styles might lead one to believe that last season's frock could be camouflaged by slight changes into a new model, this is simply a deceptive vision, asserts a fashion authority in the New York Tribune. There is a subtle widening of the line from the knees, and it is like the proverbial inch in a man's stature when one attempts to reconcile it to last year's clothes.

The waistline, too, has moved to a new salient, and, since waistlines are one of fashion's significant marks, this makes a striking difference. The line of spring was somewhere in the vicinity of the hips, while this season the waistline occupies a much lower position and really becomes a hobble around the legs or is absent altogether.

Another type of suit that is popular among the new fashions is the three-quarter length coat and dress. The three-quarter length coat returns to favor after so long a time that the flappers will not remember them at all in any measure of popularity. The knee-length coat lends itself admirably to the new flaring lines and is a refreshing change from the long coat and the eternal short jacket of other seasons. Coats of this type are usually cut flaring and are trimmed with fur—as is almost every garment in Paris. These suits are often embroidered in the fashionable Chinese and Persian motifs. Quaint Party Frocks

Quaint charm is the keynote of party frocks designed for the very small person and in the varied modes one finds that every age and every type of childhood has been studied and frocks created that, while adorably simple, nevertheless emphasize the individuality of each tiny wearer.

There are straight, slim frocks for the child just outgrowing the chubbyhood of babyhood and frilly little gowns to adorn the plump little person of three years and between these two a wide range adapted to all ages and all types.

Never have youthful clothes been more delightful, from the most practical of jersey play frocks with collars and cuffs of plaid or Roman striped ribbon, to those brief little affairs of taffeta or crepe de chine which appear on the momentous occasion of a birthday party.

Pastel colored taffeta and crepe are used for these little frocks, with many frills of the material itself or lace as trimming.

Colors and Size.

Large patterns diminish the apparent size of a room. This applies to patterns in wall paper, carpets, rugs and hangings. Dark paper likewise seems to bring the walls closer together. So do the warm, advancing colors, such as shades of red, yellow and orange. Light-colored paper in neutral tones of green, blue, violet and gray tends to make the walls recede and so to add to the apparent size of a room.

MONDAY CLUB

Hold Interesting Meeting—Egypt Was Country Discussed.

Egypt was the country studied at this week's meeting of the Monday club. Roll call was answered to by giving facts concerning Egypt. Miss Elizabeth Renick gave a most interesting account of her trip along parts of the Nile river when she was in Egypt fifteen years ago.

Egyptian art was ably reviewed by Miss Elizabeth Olds. In the absence of Mrs. Charles May, Mrs. A. L. Wilder gave a brief, but well prepared paper on Port Said and Suez Canal. The club voted to have a departmental program for next year.

After listening to Miss Phelps, the district nurse, tell what good results had been obtained by giving several under nourished children milk in the Walnut street school the past months, the club voted $25 to be used for this purpose in the schools.

The club cleared $151 at the recent concert and wish to thank all who assisted in their success.

WOMAN'S RIGHTS

Men Should Help Wipe Out the Inequalities That Exist Today.

The Lucretia Mott equal rights amendment will be introduced in the U. S. senate by Senator Curtis of Kansas and in the house of representatives by Representative Anthony, of Kansas.

The amendment reads as follows: "Men and women shall have equal rights throughout the United States and every place subject to its jurisdiction."

A deputation of two hundred women presented it to President Coolidge on November 17. Every state in the Union was represented.

Among the chief speakers were: Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, Maud Younger and Mrs. Valentine Winters of Dayton Ohio.

Mrs. Winters is the legislative chairman of the Ohio branch of the National Woman's party. She said in part: "That seven foreign republics have already granted women full equality with men under the law. We need no longer lag behind."

During the last two years a survey of the laws of the separate states has been made. Over sixty inequalities have been found to exist.

These discriminations have come down from the past, when the position of women was most degraded and are not due to the men of today yet it is within the power of the men and women of today to wipe them out.

A few illustrations follow: There are states today where a father may will away his child from its mother; where a husband owns and can collect his wife's earnings, be she school teacher or washwoman; where a married woman may not teach in the public schools; while in more than half the states in this country women may not serve upon juries.

The place for all fundamental principles of justice is in the constitution. It is the supreme law of the land and is all inclusive and with one stroke, would wipe out, not only the present inequalities but would prevent new ones from being made.

DEVICE TO SAVE HELIUM
PERFECTED BY EXPERTS

U. S. Bureau Finds Method of Retrieving and Utilizing Waste
Moisture From Gas.

Acting in co-operation with the army air service, the bureau of standards at Washington has perfected apparatus which will enable the saving of enormous amounts of helium, the non-inflammable but scarce and costly gas with which the Shenandoah is now inflated. The apparatus in question is a new condenser for retrieving moisture in the exhaust gases from the engine, rendering it unnecessary to valve helium.

To maintain the equilibrium of an airship inflated with either helium or hydrogen it is necessary at times to "valve," that is, to permit some of the gas to escape to compensate for the weight of the fuel consumed by the engines, or to overcome the expansion of the gas caused by the heat of the sun's rays.

This need for the "valving" of helium used in rigid airships was one of the reasons why it was so difficult to get enough of the expensive, safe gas to substitute for the hydrogen inflation which caused many disasters in the past.

How to compensate for the weight of fuel lost and also to maintain the lifting gas at an even temperature so as to conserve helium presented a difficult problem. As early as 1915 the British government made some efforts in the direction of the recovery of the water vapor component formed as a product of combustion from the exhaust gases of the engine, but the results achieved were not of sufficient promise to warrant the continuation of tests.

The information gained through these experiments proved of value when work began on the project for the army air service. While the experiments were financed and sponsored by the army air service, it was the scientists at the bureau of standards who worked out a practical solution of the problem and developed a successful device.

YOUNG WASHINGTON GIRL
SEEKS MASTER'S DEGREE

Dorothy Stevens of Washington is the youngest girl that we know who has a bachelor of arts degree. Dorothy is nineteen and was graduated from George Washington university, and is now studying for her master's degree. But Miss Stevens emphatically declares that she doesn't want to be known as a "bookworm," and her friends declare they can't understand "how she does it," for she is rarely seen with "her face in a book" and is the jolliest sort of playmate. Here she is just learning to play mah jong.

PARROT'S CALLS SAVE LIFE

Repeats Woman's Cries for Help in Waters of Lake.

The parrot at the home of Leslie Muller, on the shore of Island lake near Shelton, Wash., is deserving of a hero medal, the Muller family believes.

Mrs. Bullock, housekeeper for the Mullers, fell into the lake while fishing. Her cries for help were not heard by men working in the barn, but the parrot excitedly repeated the calls with such effect that the men responded and swam to the woman just in time to save her life.

AMUSEMENTS

One of the sweetest romance stories ever told on the screen is the Paramount picture, "The Trial of the Lonesome Pine," starring Mary Miles Minter, which opened at the Met theater last night.

The star, in the role of a comely girl of the Cumberland mountains in Kentucky, is a leading figure of one of the most bloody family feuds ever waged. Antonio Moreno, in the leading man's role of John Hale, is prospecting for coal about the home of June Tolliver (Miss Minter). He finds the site promising and takes an option on the property and at the same time on the girl's heart.

Hale, as an officer of the law, arrests a member of June's family for murder and in so doing rekindles the long smoldering feud existing between the Tolliver and Falin families. In the fighting that ensues, Hale is wounded and cared for by June. The girl's love for Hale is the means of reconciling the Falins and the Tollivers and June and Hale are married.

The work of Miss Minter and Mr. Moreno is most commendable. The star is supported by an able cast, including Edwin Brady, Frances Warner, J. S. Stembridge and Cullen Tate. Ernest Torrence has a featured role. The late John Fox Jr., was author of the novel from which Will M. Ritchey made the adaptation. Charles Maigne directed.

Hotel Stenographer

BY BOE FULKERSON

"It's a nasty day," said the House Detective. "Kelly" replied the Hotel Stenographer don't the statisticians, employed by the government figure up the time people waste talking about the weather? You can't blame anybody about the weather, and altho we talk about it a lot, I never heard of anybody trying to do anything about it. It's all up in the air, Kelly. The air is responsible for a lot of waste.

"If the air gets too hot we blow our dough for georgette and crepe de chine to make us comfortable. Just about when we are thru paying for we have to buy furs and woolen summer things, the air turns cold and undies, and all, to keep from freezing.

"If the air is wet, we buy umbrellas and taxicabs and overshoes and if it is dry we water the lawns and sprinkle the streets.

"If the air gets too close it is poisonous; and if we let in a draft, we catch the sniffles and have a day out of petting parties.

"Too much hot air makes us bored, and people with a superior air make us mad. If we meet people with a humble air, we want to kick 'em. The whole subject of air and weather is a waste of time and money and causes a lot of trouble.

"I am sick of talking about it, and if you cannot think of anything any more entertaining than the air and the weather, you need not park yourself here by my desk and waste my time."

"You don't like to talk about the weather," asked the House Detective. "No!" she snapped.

"I hope I never happen around here when you find something like that to talk about," said Kelly, walking away with an offended air.

Bible Thought for Today

MAN IS GOD'S IMAGE.—And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness; and let them have dominion over all the earth. So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created them.—Gen. 1:26, 27.

PAVING

Of Northridge Road is Completed and is Splendid Piece of Work.

The Northridge road better known as the Ringgold pike, was finished and thrown open to travel Monday afternoon.

Work was begun on the road August 15, last. The contract was let to McHugh Brothers, James J., and Joseph A. McHugh, of Springfield.

The road is paved with wire cut Logan brick laid on concrete base and cushion with a concrete curb and apron. It took 175,000 brick to cover the surface of the road between curb. The road is thirty feet wide and 1519 feet long. Asphalt was used as filler.

A delay of three weeks occurred during the work, caused by a breakage in the machinery. The contractors were fortunate in having exceptionally good weather in which to rush the work thru. The job is as fine a piece of road paving as has been completed in this county.

The survey work on the job was done by the city civil engineer, Thomas Moore, the grades are gradual and water was taken care of by storm water sewers, which were built before the road was surfaced. The inspection was taken care of under the supervision of Ex-sheriff W. H. Warner.

Including the surveying and sewerage the total cost of the paved road will be $24,000.

CHRISTMAS SEALS

Sale is Now on—Money Used in the Tuberculosis Campaign.

The annual roll call of American Red Cross which started on Armistice day came to a close November 29th. As in previous years there is an agreement between the Red Cross and the National Tuberculosis association that there is to be no overlapping of the Red Cross campaign into the Christmas Seal sale which starts December 1st.

Christmas Seal agents and local Red Cross workers have been notified

again that there is no connection between the Red Cross roll call and the Tuberculosis Christmas Seal sale. Many newspapers still refer to the Christmas Seals as Red Cross Seals. Both organizations are anxious to avoid this confusion and local seal agents should take pains to point out that there is no connection between the two movements.

Money derived from the Christmas Seal sale goes to the local state and national organization affiliated in tuberculosis campaign.

It is not generally known that stenography as a profession was followed as long ago as the days of the Roman empire. Poets, who are sometimes ridiculed nowadays for having private stenographers, had them in the fourth century of our era.

American Weights Wrong.

The United States bureau of standards reports that many of the weights submitted by American makers for test have been unsatisfactory. This has caused such great delay and inconvenience that one of the largest dealers is already considering the advisability of importing at least those weights which are to be certified by the bureau. Apparently the trouble is mainly due to insufficient factory inspection.

SOAR OVER ICE PEAKS IN PLANE

Explorers Cross Lofty Crags in
Flying Boat—Wonderful
Pictures of Scenery.

Spitzbergen.—Flying over jagged ice-clad Arctic mountain crags in a seaplane with "knocking" motor provides the thrill of thrills—it is no sport for one with a weak heart. Such a trip was made by W. Mittelholzer, a Swiss aviator who has charge of the aviation expedition sent to Spitzbergen to co-operate with Amundsen in his attempt to fly from Point Barrow to Spitzbergen. He took with him an all-metal Junker seaplane to relieve Amundsen should the latter be compelled to land in the course of his long flight. Though Amundsen's failure was known before Mittelholzer reached Spitzbergen, he made use of his opportunity to make interesting aerial reconnaissances, which he describes in the Neue Zürcher Zeitung in an article translated in the Living Age as follows:

Engine Starts to Knock.

I determined to cross over the Chydenius range, which culminates in crystalline pinnacle of Newtontop at a height of nearly 6,000 feet, and thence across the 50 or 60 miles of mountainous country to Hinlopen strait.

My pilot Neumann, was a veteran seaplane operator. The great ice fiord lay before us. On both sides vast glaciers, framed in rugged cliffs, descended into the deep blue water. To the northward rose a sea of peaks and pinnacles, whose violet hues stood out with knife-like sharpness against the golden-yellow horizon. To the southward one snowy dome followed another under an azure blue Italian heaven, beyond which our gaze seemed to lose itself in infinity.

But what ailed our motor? Whenever Neumann gave it more gas it would knock distressingly. I left it to Neumann to decide whether we should turn back, but he motioned vigorously ahead, throttled down his motor as much as possible and trusted to his "flyer's luck" not to leave us in the lurch.

Take Pictures of Scenery.

We were only 5,000 feet above the sea and Newtontop still towered above us. When Neumann gave the motor more gas to rise higher, it began to knock again, so our only recourse was to find a way through the mountain passes, where we were violently tossed hither and thither by powerful wind currents. We would glide above deep abysses, skirt, glittering bluish-green ice precipices, and turn sharply this way and that in order to record on our films as much as possible of the glorious, awe-inspiring scenery on either hand. Neumann performed his task with coolness and courage.

For nearly half an hour we threaded our way with many a twist and turn amid the highest peaks of Spitzbergen—in a seaplane! Leaving our lofty mountain companions we were soon speeding over a mighty glacier, where we could easily have made a landing almost anywhere.

Only Two Survivors of Ancient Indian Tribe

Seattle.—The last surviving members of the Chemakum tribe of Indians have been discovered living in one of the old villages of the Clallam tribe along the straits of Juan de Fuca. They are an old man and his sister. They have forgotten almost all of their own language, but Prof. Franz Boas of Columbia university succeeded in 1890 in extracting 1,200 Chemakum words from them. It is believed that centuries before white men came to Puget sound the Chemakum inhabited the whole northern part of the Olympic peninsula and were a powerful tribe.

Boy Loses Hand While Feeding Bear in Zoo

New York.—When little Ralph Thomas offered a peanut to a polar bear in the zoo here, the huge animal chewed off the boy's hand. The boy's father lifted him to the bear's cage despite warning that the animal was troublesome and would seek to kill if anyone came within reach.

Weds After Getting Divorce.

Port Huron, Mich.—Within a few minutes after he had obtained a divorce, Otto Harsen, of Algonac, took out a license to wed Mabel Hansing, also of Algonac. Harsen's wife did not contest the divorce proceedings.

U. S. Gob to Lose

His Flat Hat Soon

Washington.—Abolition of the blue, flat hat, which has characterized U. S. bluejackets almost from the inception of the navy, will be recommended to the Secretary of the Navy if a suitable substitute can be found by the board of officers investigating proposed changes in the uniform, it was learned.

Disadvantages of the old "sailor" type of headgear, such as the difficulty of keeping it on when the wind is blowing and the ease with which it wrinkles, long have been apparent, but search for a substitute has been fruitless thus far.

Pactolus.
Pactolus was the ancient name of a small river in Lydia, Asia Minor, whose waters were said to flow over golden sands. In classic myth, Midas, king of Phrygia, foolishly besought Dionysus that all things he touched should be changed to gold. His prayer was granted, but as even the food he touched was transmuted into the precious metal, Midas implored the god to revoke the gift. He was therefore ordered to bathe in the River Pactolus, which ever after flowed over golden sands. The gold found in the bed of this river was, in reality, from Mt. Tmolus, and, according to tradition, was the principal source of wealth of the Lydian kings.

Increasing Yield of Tubers by Spraying

Average Gain of 60 Bushels
Per Acre in New York.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

With few exceptions, large gains in yield have been obtained by spraying potatoes as a protection against insect pests and diseases, says Farmers' Bulletin 1349, "Increasing the Potato Crop by Spraying," just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. This fact has been established by extensive experiments conducted in New York and Vermont. During a 10-year period, at different experiment stations in New York state, an average gain of 60 bushels an acre was obtained. At the Vermont station, during a 20-year period, which involved all possible seasonal variations, an average gain of 105 bushels an acre, or 64 per cent over the unsprayed, resulted.

In addition, records taken from a business point of view on a series of experiments of a nine-year duration, conducted by farmers under the direction of the New York state experiment station, show large gains. The average cost of spraying, including materials, labor and wear and tear on machinery, was $4.74 an acre. The nine-year average increase in yield due to spraying was 36 bushels an acre, making a net profit of $14.43 an acre. When these experiments were conducted the cost of materials was less than at the time the bulletin was written, but the increased product warrants an increased expenditure. Copies of the bulletin may be obtained, as long as the supply lasts, by writing to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Takes Brains and Pains to Produce Winter Eggs

Whistling, or speaking gently, or knocking on the door to let the hens know when he is coming, will save the poultryman several eggs in the day's gathering, says Prof. Willard C. Thompson, poultry husbandman of the New Jersey experiment station, in a circular on "The Winter-Time Management of the Laying Flock."

Fright, he goes on to say, is often fatal to and always interferes with normal egg production. Hence the necessity of having the poultryman move slowly through the pens.

Fresh air in the laying house at all times is another essential to maximum egg production, according to Professor Thompson. The reasons for the necessity of having fresh air are that the expiring breath of fowls is heavily laden with moisture, as it carries many liquid waste products of the body processes, which in other animals are given off through the sweat glands and through the urinary system.

Moisture in the expiring breath of fowls, if not carried out of the house, saturates the atmosphere and creates dampness quickly. The poisons in the expiring breath of fowls when reheated, cannot but deplete the vitality of the birds.

Then, because there are usually a large number of fowls per unit of floor space, all the air that can possibly be given should be furnished.

Heavy dry mash consumption is one of the principal requirements which the author mentions for a good supply of eggs in winter.

Nicotine Treatment for Stomach Worms of Sheep

Forty per cent nicotine sulphate is better than copper sulphate for getting rid of stomachworms of sheep, recent tests show. The nicotine sulphate is easier to get, is more efficient, and the after effects of treatment do not last so long. Three teaspoonfuls to a quart of water is the right strength, and give four ounces of this solution to each mature ewe that weighs 100 pounds or more. For a smaller animal, more or less weak, use not more than three ounces, and for a five-months-old lamb, use not more than two ounces.

Good Winter Ration for Eggs Is Easily Mixed

A good winter ration for eggs is as follows: Scratch feed, 200 pounds shelled or cracked corn, 100 pounds for each day, then the meat scraps or oats or wheat. With this feed as a mash, 100 pounds cornmeal, 100 pounds ground oats, 100 pounds wheat middlings, 100 pounds wheat bran and 100 pounds meat scraps or tankage. If you have 4 gallons of milk per 100 hens tankage may be omitted.

Pork From Fall Pigs Produced Economically

The man who has reasonably warm quarters for his fall pigs and who gives them the right attention in connection with feeding can produce pork almost as economically from fall as from spring pigs. Frequently he can make more money out of fall pigs, because if sold early in the spring hogs usually bring better prices than when the bulk of the spring pig is sold.

Silage Undesirable for Feeding Poultry Flock

Although silage is a good succulent feed, it is a dangerous practice to feed it to poultry. Silage sometimes contains a slight mold which cannot be detected by the eye and it is this that makes it undesirable for poultry feed. This department advises the elimination of silage from the ration and in its place the addition of sprouted oats.

Thoreau an Independent Man.

Thoreau was never married. He was a solitary man.

The chief element in his character was independence. He must live his own life and go his own way. He said: "Nothing is so much to be feared as fear. The sin that God hates is fear; He thinks atheism innocent in comparison."

He wrote in his diary: "If I do not keep step with others it is because I hear a different drummer. Let a man step to the music which he hears, however measured and however far away."

He went to jail because he would not pay his poll tax, on the ground that the government supported slavery. No one wanted to arrest him. The man who took him in custody offered to pay the tax.—Ladies' Home Journal.

BADLY INJURED

Judson Kochensperger Thrown From
Wheel and Rendered Unconscious

Judson Kochensperger, son of Mrs.
Charles Kochensperger was badly injured Monday evening on East Main street, when the bicycle he was riding skidded on the slippery street in front of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fickardt. The boy, who is 13 years of age was thrown headlong against the curb sustaining a deep cut over the left eye rendering him unconscious. He was found by Miss Kathleen Morehouse and Earl Imbler, who were on their way home about eight o'clock. They at once notified the police department and the boy was taken to his home where his wounds were dressed by Dr. Heffner.

It was at first thought that the boy was hit by a passing automobile but on investigation it was found that this was not the fact as marks on the curb and a tree nearby plainly show where the accident occurred. The track of the wheel was plainly visible in the street.

The boy recovered consciousness this morning but is unable to tell how the accident happened. He was on his way to pay dues at the Building &
Loan office, when the accident happened. Shortly before the accident he had visited at the home of his sister, Mrs. Leroy Justus on East Main street.

"The Store That Treats You Right"

It's Days Like Yesterday
That Makes Friends for
Colwell & Katz's

When things are frozen solid is when men get right down to solid facts.

Yesterday this store put several feathers in its cap because it had the warm caps ---the lined coats and the heavy pants.

We secured a foothold in dozens of homes because of warm hose---heavy underwear and our flannel shirts.

Men who came here for warm O'coats found them at sane affordable prices.

It's a sort of mean thing to wish---but we hope tomorrow is stormy again for that is when we blow up the most new friends.
